

Tom Stine

Tom Stine is the co-founder of Golf Datatech, LLC, established in 1996, the leading golf market research company in the industry. Golf Datatech tracks the retail sales of golf products throughout the U.S. and determines the market shares of those products for the industry. In addition, it conducts numerous consumer and trade research surveys and projects for its clients. The company recently launched Golf Datatech Europe in the United Kingdom conducting similar functions. Prior to Golf Datatech, Tom was part of the management team that launched The Golf Channel in 1995. And before that he and his father founded Golfweek Magazine.
